SCIENTIFIC COMMUNITY

An organic chemistry community

The recent Empowering Women in Organic Chemistry meeting was its most dynamic yet. Shanina Sanders Johnson discusses how this meeting exhibited inclusivity and examined strategies such as mentoring and forming allies to increase diversity, equity, and inclusion in organic chemistry.

EWOC 2022

- Opportunity to reach and empower 100s' of historically under-represented and marginalized scientists, together with our allies, all across the globe
- Opportunity to raise and address the issues of racism how it intersects with principles we talk about when we talk about women in organic chemistry.
- Opportunity to Re-emerge and engage
